Mercy to the Worlds

God sent Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) as a beacon of guidance and a role model for the people, leading them from darkness to light. Unlike the previous prophets, who were sent only to particular nations, Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) was sent for the whole of mankind.

And we have not sent you, (O Muhammad), except as a mercy to the worlds.
(Al Quran, 21:107)

His life was a testament to the most beautiful character, and a living example of how a person should live to please his Creator.

“His character was the Qur’an.”
(Mother Ayesha, the wife of Prophet Muhammad)

- Kindness to the Poor: "The Prophet (PBUH) was never asked for anything but he gave it, even if it was a little." (Sahih Bukhari)
- Kindness to Parents: "A man came to the Prophet (PBUH) and said: "I have come to you to take the oath of allegiance to you on emigration, and I left my parents weeping". He (the Prophet) said: "Return to them and make them laugh as you made them weep." (Sunan Abi Dawood)
- Kindness to Children: A Companion saw the Prophet (PBUH) kissing his grandson Al-Hasan. He said, "I have ten children and I do not kiss any of them." The Prophet said, "Verily, whoever does not show mercy will not receive mercy." (Sahih Bukhari)
- Kindness to Animals: "Fear Allah in these animals who cannot speak their will. Do you not see that they are created at your disposal and that they serve you in what is beyond your capacity?" (Sunan Abi Dawood)
- Kindness to the Enemies: During the conquest of Makkah, he pardoned his enemies, proclaiming, "No reproof against you this day; may Allah forgive you, and He is the Most Merciful of the merciful."

THE LIGHT OUT OF DARKNESS

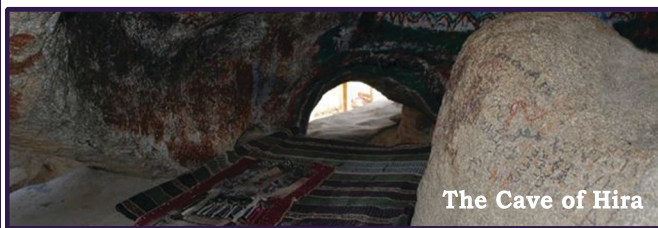

Few people in history have left as profound an impact on humanity as Prophet Muhammad (PBUH). Sent as the last prophet by God to complete the message of monotheism, he endured years of relentless opposition and persecution from the pagan Arabs before his mission finally prevailed. His universal message shook the foundations of two superpowers of the time—the Byzantine Roman and Persian empires—and within a century, Islam spread from Arabia to North Africa, Central Asia and Southern Europe, all the way to Persia and India. Today, Islam unites over a billion people across multiple races and nationalities. This brochure provides an insight into the life of this extraordinary man, exploring his enduring legacy and timeless wisdom.

The Unlettered Prophet

"And the book is delivered to him that is not learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I am not learned." (Isaiah 29:12)

This prophecy from the Old Testament finds its fulfilment in Prophet Muhammad (PBUH). While praying in the cave of Hira, the angel Gabriel appeared to him and commanded, "Read!". Muhammad (PBUH), being unlettered, replied, "I cannot read." Gabriel embraced him and repeated the command, revealing the first words of the Qur'an (96:1-5). This marked the beginning of his prophethood.

Examining His Claim of Prophethood

When someone claims to be a prophet, they must present undeniable proof of their divine connection. Let's put Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) to the test and examine whether he's a true prophet of God.

Was he a deluded poet?

Clarity and Consistency of Revelations

It is crucial to note that Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) could not read or write, let alone author a book. The Qur'an, revealed to him, is not just a literary masterpiece but a linguistic miracle, proving it could only be from God. Its clarity, consistency, and profound wisdom make the idea of it being authored by a deluded poet implausible. The Qur'an also contains knowledge that was unknown to people at the time. It challenges humanity to produce even a single chapter like it (Al Baqarah 2:23). Despite centuries of attempts, no one has succeeded, underscoring its divine origin.

Was he a liar?

Known for His Truthfulness and Integrity

Even before his prophethood, Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) was known by two names: Al-Sadiq (The Truthful) and Al-Ameen (The Trustworthy). After receiving the first revelation, he climbed Mount Safa and asked his people, "If I were to tell you that an army is coming behind this mountain, would you believe me?" They replied, "Yes, we have always known you to be truthful." He then declared his prophethood and called them to worship Allah alone. Despite attesting to his honesty, they rejected his message leading to a long struggle underscored by severe torture and persecution.

Was he seeking power or fame?

Rejecting Worldly Temptations

When his message started to spread, he was offered wealth, kingship, and the most beautiful women to abandon his mission, Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) replied, "Even if you place the sun on my right hand and the moon on my left, I will never give up this mission until Allah makes it prevail or I perish in the attempt." (Sahih Bukhari)

Enduring Persecution

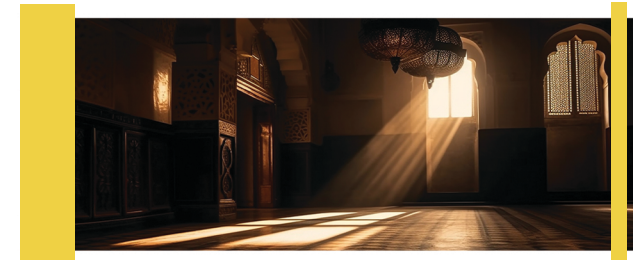

Despite severe persecution, social boycott, torture, and assassination attempts, Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) remained steadfast. He was even exiled and pursued by his enemies, who fought three battles before the religion of Allah finally prevailed.

Slave of Allah

If Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) sought fame or glory, he would have directed people to worship him. Instead, he consistently redirected all worship to his Maker.

"Do not exaggerate in praising me as the Christians praised the son of Mary, for I am only a Slave. So, call me the Slave of Allah and His Apostle." (Sahih Bukhari)

He lived humbly, often walking behind others, and at his death, he left behind only a mule, a few weapons, and a piece of land which he had given as charity.
